SPIRIT OF THE STUDIO

- The spirit of our architecture studio is born from the very essence of Turin: a city with a unique character, small yet full of potential, deeply rooted in history but always ready to look towards the future. Turin is a city that, while maintaining its authenticity and charm, desires to grow and establish itself on an international scale. This ambition is also at the heart of our work: creating architecture that expresses the best of local roots but is capable of communicating with the world.
- As an architect and promoter of the territory, I have had the honor of holding numerous roles that have allowed me to actively contribute to the cultural and urban development of Turin. As a member of the Order of Architects of Turin, and as President of the Foundation for Architecture, I have worked to enhance the heritage of our city, promoting creativity and innovation within the architectural community. My commitment at Fondazione CRT and other institutions in the Piedmont region has allowed me to deeply understand the dynamics and potential of our territory, and to contribute to its enrichment through significant cultural and architectural projects.

OUR STUDIO

- The studio stands out for its ability to combine a deep knowledge of the local context with an international vision. We firmly believe in the importance of keeping the links with Turin's architectural traditions alive, respecting the historical and cultural context, while never ceasing to innovate. This approach allows us to develop projects that are not only functional but also capable of evoking emotions, always putting people and their experience of space at the center.
- Our vision is inspired by continuous growth, much like that of Turin. We are open to international collaboration and the cross-pollination of ideas, as we believe that dialogue with other cultures and contexts enriches our design capabilities and offers new perspectives to tackle architectural challenges.
- The spirit of our studio is therefore to unite roots and wings: a deep connection with Turin and the Piedmont region, and a constant aspiration towards an international breadth. We want to contribute to making Turin a contemporary, dynamic city, capable of looking forward without ever losing sight of its unique identity.
